FIRST CLASS CARE WINS TOP ENDORSEMENT FROM PROFESSIONAL SPORTS WIVES ASSOCIATION

NORTHBROOK, IL, June 30, 2011 - First Class Care (<http://www.firstclasscare.com>) recently was named the exclusive domestic placement agency in Chicago for the Professional Sports Wives Association (<http://www.prosportswives.com>). The purpose of the affiliation is to help families of professional athletes and coaches when they relocate to Chicago.

“The Professional Sports Wives Association provides resources to meet the unique needs of our members,” said Gena Pitts, the association’s executive director, publisher and editor-in-chief. “One of the biggest challenges for sports families is relocation, which requires families to quickly set up homes in unfamiliar cities and maintain their routines with minimal interruption.

“First Class Care first came to our attention when it was named 2010 Agency of the Year by the Association of Premier Nanny Agencies. We learned that First Class Care is a proven source of professional and trustworthy candidates for all domestic positions, including housekeepers, nannies, babysitters, chefs and other positions. The convenience of being able to find candidates for every household need with just one phone call will be very helpful to our members in transition.”

First Class Care President and founder Erin Krex is excited about this opportunity to serve and support families of professional athletes. “Many of our clients have needs similar to high-profile sports celebrities, so we’re very experienced with managing privacy and security concerns. All our candidates are rigorously screened, interviewed and reference-checked by licensed placement counselors.”
